

Company Desk Check

One company checked before you commit, so you find out what they are before your goods do.

EUR 49 · delivered next business day
Africa only · every claim carries its source and date

What this is not

It is not a credit rating and it is not a site visit. Nobody goes there. If the decision is worth more than the difference, take the Company Field Check instead.

It is not an introduction. Nothing here includes a meeting, a warm handover, or anyone from MRX approaching a company on your behalf. That is a mandate, and it is a different product.

Provenance, on every claim

Every claim in the full deliverable is tagged so you know what you are relying on: [D] desk, public source named and dated · [P] pipeline, our own sourcing, Reoon power-mode verified · [F] field, observed by our operators in market · [E] estimate, our calculation with the method shown.

About this sample. It shows what the deliverable covers and how we approach it. Every operational figure, rate, name, margin and deadline is withheld, because that is what you are buying.

How we reach a verdict (reproduced in full)

Three questions decide it, and they are not the ones most buyers ask.

- Does the business exist as a trading entity, separately from having a website? A registration and a domain are cheap. A trading history is not.
- Does it handle your category, or merely list it? Companies in this region commonly list every category they would accept an order in.
- Is anything inconsistent? Not wrong, inconsistent. A stated head office that does not match the registration, a domain younger than the claimed trading history, a phone that routes somewhere else. Fraud is usually visible as inconsistency long before it is visible as fraud.

The verdict is one of three: proceed, proceed with caution, or do not proceed. Where it is caution, we say precisely what would have to be true for it to become proceed.
